

Susanna Nocchi

Institution: Dublin Institute of Technology
Address: Kevin Street
Postal Code: D8 - Dublin
Country: Ireland

Tel: +353
Fax: +39-055-462.88.73
Email: susanna.nocchi@dit.ie
Web: www.dit.ie

Susanna Nocchi is an Assistant Lecturer in Italian, at the School of Languages, in DIT (Dublin Institute of Technology, Ireland).

In 1988 she graduated in Foreign Languages and Literatures, from the University of Pisa and started working as a teacher of Italian as a Second Language in 1989, collaborating with schools in Milan, Florence, Rome and foreign companies and institutes (Mauritius, Iceland).

In 1994 she moved to Ireland and worked as a Language Assistant in the Dept. of Italian at UCD (University College Dublin), where she became Senior Tutor. In 2000 she finished her Master in Applied Linguistics, at Trinity College, Dublin.

From 2000 she has been teaching in DIT where she is now full time.

Susanna Nocchi has also been involved in syllabus design, in Ireland and Finland and in teacher training, she has held various seminars and workshops for secondary school teachers of Italian in Ireland and has collaborated with the Italian Cultural Institutes both in Dublin, and in Delhi, where she organised a week long workshop for lecturers of Italian in Indian universities.

Susanna Nocchi is an author of teaching material for foreign students of Italian, she has published with Alma (Florence, Italy), Authentik (Dublin, Ireland) and the Department of Education, Ireland.