

Francesca Ripamonti

Institution: Liceo Scient. St. "G. Gandini"
Address: Via Cadore 1
Postal Code: I- 26900 -Lodi
Country: Italy

Tel: +39-328-45.53.112
Fax: +39-0371- 42.72.13
Email: f.ripamonti@fastwebnet.it

Francesca Ripamonti is teacher of English at Liceo Scientifico "G. Gandini" in Lodi.

She graduated in Foreign Languages and Literatures at Università Degli Studi in Milan with a dissertation on the origins of the English Novel.

She has a University Master in TEFL (Teaching English as a Foreign Language) completed at Universidad de Alcalà -Madrid-.

She is attending a Training Course on using Technology in the Classroom at Padua University

She got Post-Graduate specializations in Methodology, ELT (English Language Teaching) and ICT (Information and Communication Technology) at Forcom and Tor Vergata Universities in Rome

Since 2004 she has been active as a Teacher Trainer and e-Tutor in various Ministerial Projects: "Teaching English Language and Methodology to Primary Teachers"; "Interactive Whiteboard Training"; "Poseidon" (blending Classical and Modern Languages).

In 2007 she was bursar of a Socrates Comenius project (University of East Anglia, Norwich, UK) working on the Brit-Lit project (British Council) helping teachers from around the world to exploit English Literature in the ELT classroom.

In 2004 she took part in a national CLIL project and has held various lectures and talks on the subject.

She is author of English Coursebooks on Language Portfolio (Macmillan Publ.) and of essays on using Food in Language Teaching ("Let's Cook...or how to be Creative Teachers and Learners using Food" –Lend-

Her research interests include Blended Learning, Integration of Technology in EFL Teaching/Learning, Assessment and Evaluation and Teacher Professional Development.