I am a doctoral candidate at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL). I am majoring in Instructional Technology with a concentration in online education and production of multimedia instructional materials. I received a master degree from the University of Belgrade (UB), Republic of Serbia, in the year of 2006 with a major in Adult Education. Prior to coming to UNL I worked for eight years (2000/09) as a full-time instructor at UB, College of Philosophy, Department of Pedagogy and Andragogy. I taught the following courses: Media and Education, Andragogy of Communication and Media, Methodology of Adult Elementary Education and Leisure Education.

The year of 2007 was a milestone in my academic endeavors for two reasons. First, I published my first book Obrazovanje i Rekreacija (Through Education to Recreation) which was approved by the Academic Board at the College of Philosophy – UB, and fully funded by the Serbian Adult Education Society and The Institute for International Cooperation of the German Adult Education Association - DVV international Büro-Belgrad. Second, I was accepted to the doctoral program at UNL. Having been a full-time doctoral student for the past two years, I have been working on a variety of research projects and assignment. Furthermore, I have also been teaching different courses and currently, I teach two sections of Instructional Technology TEAC 259 to preservice teachers at the College of Education and Human Science-UNL.

Expected graduation date: Fall 2010.
