Antonio Raigón has taught at the University of Cordoba since 2005, combining this activity with his job at the University Language Center as an English Language Coordinator (Ucoidiomas, www.uco.es/idiomas).

He obtained his degree in English Studies in 1998 and moved to USA to work as a teacher at CM Bardwell Elementary School (Aurora, IL), as a part of the bilingual program.

After two years he started postgraduate courses to obtain his PhD in Education and English Studies, achieving this academic degree in 2008.

His research interests are Language learning, ICT and Intercultural communication.
