Elżbieta Jendrych is the head of the Languages Centre at Kozminski University and the director of the Business English Postgraduate Program for Teachers.

She graduated from the Warsaw University, the Department of English and got her Ph.D. degree in linguistics at the same university.

After gaining some experience in teaching general English she decided to move to ESP and has taught medical and business English for many years.

Her research interest is in specialist vocabulary and in corpus studies used for teaching purposes. In her doctoral thesis she presented and discussed the results of a corpus study of business texts and a parametric analysis of these texts.

Elżbieta Jendrych is the author and co-author of 10 books and numerous articles on corpus studies, teaching Business English and designing materials for ESP.

Currently she works as a teacher of Business English and a teacher trainer. She coordinates the work of the staff of over 50 language teachers at Kozminski University. She is also an examiner for English for Business exams (London Chamber of Commerce and Industry) and a reporter for Pearson Longman.
